Challenges & Opportunities for Advanced Engineering in the International Marketplace

Allan Cook
Chairman

Our position in international markets is under threat. The UK's advanced manufacturing and engineering industry is now in decline.

How do we deal with this situation and who is responsible? Government, Industry or the Education System?

There are NO easy answers, but our resilience and heritage should not be ignored. We must attract and retain the best skills else our businesses will face unprecedented challenges.

Time is of the essence!
